The Bottom Line

Become Beauty: Night Cream is a great night cream that makes your skin feel so hydrated and pampered, you'll have a hard time keeping your hands from touching your super-soft face.

Pros

- This moisturizer soaks in quickly.
- It makes your skin feels super soft and hydrated.
- The air-tight bottle keeps ingredients free from light and air.

Cons

- Moisturizer tends to separate, which is easily fixed by shaking first.
- Not crazy about the scent, but it disappears quickly.

Description

- Anti-aging night cream that you apply to your skin after cleansing each night before bed.
- 1.4 ounces retail for $68.
- Available through independent Become Beauty consultants or on their website.

Guide Review - Become Beauty: Night Cream

Become Beauty is a new skin care line to the United States. It comes from Australia, where it is very popular. You won't find these products in stores; you'll find them by Become Beauty independent consultants who demonstrate these products Home Clinics. You can also find all of them at BecomeBeauty.com.

Become Beauty: Night Cream comes in a super cute red bottle that is sealed from air and light. This is great because many times packaging will make or break a product's effectiveness. It doesn't matter what ingredients a product says it has if those ingredients are affected by light or air and packaged in a tub. Become Beauty eliminates the possibility of losing potency by sealing the moisturizer from air and sunlight. The only negative this has is that you don't know exactly how much product you have left. But seeing you have effective ingredients, it's only a slight problem that you will be glad to deal with.

The bottle dispenses the product with a pump top that gives you just the right amount, and doesn't cause wasted product. Night Cream is just slightly thicker than a serum, so it's not a typical heavy anti-aging cream, which I love. Its color is white, and it has a scent that I'm not too crazy about, but luckily it fades fast.

The featured ingredients in this moisturizer are Matrixyl 3000 which smooths fine lines, Resurrected Plant Extracts which boosts moisture content and Pearl Extract which defends your skin against environmental damage.

It only takes about a minute for this moisturizer to fully soak in, and your skin is left feeling super pampered and hydrated, definitely not bogged down. I love the way my skin feels after I use Become Beauty's Night Cream.
